I was waved down by a resident who reported seeing a car dropping off a woman who went through trash cans. I stopped the vehicle on Jacob Lane. It was driven by a man who said he was helping a friend make some extra money by collecting recyclable trash, but he could not remember her name. He checked clear and I advised him to stay out of the area.

I responded to a 911 call in the 4200 block of North River Way. An elderly man answered the door and said his wife had a small accident inside, that he was going to drive her to the hospital and that he did not need my help. I said I would stand by while he got her into his car. While I was standing on the front porch, I heard a loud woman's scream from inside the house. The man ran up to me and said "she has fallen down and cannot get up!" I went in to help and found his elderly wife on her knees, face-down on the floor, screaming that her shoulders hurt. She reportedly had a prior medical condition that had been aggravated when she fell. I assisted the husband get her into a wheelchair, wheel her out to his car and get her in. I offered medical assistance from Metro Fire several times, but both subjects declined.

I arrived and the officer managed to get the subject handcuffed. I returned to the Wilhaggin area and resumed my patrol.

I stopped and issued a warning to a driver who did not come to a full stop at the Crondall and Estates sign.

I received a report from a WDDNA member about a rude driver who had passed the member on American River Drive. The homeowner wanted us to be aware of the truck. I responded, noting that we cannot enforce traffic laws when violations are not committed in our presence. Nevertheless, I encouraged the member to continue sharing such information because it allows us to become familiar with vehicle descriptions and unsafe drivers.

I checked all the river access points and found no issues.

While driving down Keane Drive, I saw a 3-year-old boy walking with his mom. I stopped and let the boy sit in my patrol car's driver's seat so he could see the inside of a patrol car. He was super excited.

I responded to an email from a WDDNA member about people parking on lawns on Robin Lane. I drove by to visually see what was occurring. It appeared that Robin Lane is narrow and some residents park portions of their cars on their own lawns so vehicles can more easily get by on the street. I suggested that the member take pictures and email them to county code enforcement to inquire about the legality of the practice.

I responded to an email asking if we could check on a homeless woman sleeping in her car at the entrance to William Pond Park. I checked the area and emailed the homeowner that the woman was gone.

I randomly drove through the area throughout the night and located a dark blue Toyota Celica with two occupants who do not live in the neighborhood. I advised them of the parking violation and pointed out the numerous no parking signs in the area. Then I sent them on their way.
